

Pubgoers given choice to prove age with phones next year in boost for high street and hospitality sectors

People will be able to use digital ID's on their phones to verify their age when purchasing alcohol in pubs, clubs, and shops from next year.