

Regulator concludes case into climate change think tank following changes

Charity Commission concludes its compliance case involving the Global Warming Policy Foundation (GWPF), after the charity made changes to the way it operates and to its relationships with third parties.