

Research: Online services in general practice: patterns of use and barriers to uptake

This project is in line with the national ambition to support the adoption of a range of technology initiatives in general practice.