

Research will help shape cross-government writing skills training

Researchers are to carry out a ground-breaking project to assess the impact of writing skills training across government.