

Researchers helping African farmers diversify

Researchers from Scotland's Rural College have recently returned from Guinea-Bissau in Western Africa to assist in building networking and knowledge transfer centres between international researchers.