

Rivers in the North East get fish stocks boost

The Environment Agency has released thousands of young grayling into the region's rivers to give stocks a boost and offer more opportunities for anglers.