

Rosalind Franklin Mars rover passes latest tests ahead of September launch

The UK-built ExoMars Rosalind Franklin rover is set for launch in September after a series of successful tests, including driving off its landing platform.