Excerpt from the transcript:

Talks with Prime Minister of Luxembourg Xavier Bettel

Dmitry Medvedev: Mr Bettel, I cordially welcome you once again.

Since our future has been outlined for us, I suggest we move to more mundane issues pertinent to the current state of our bilateral relations.

We met in 2015 during your visit to Sochi and in Ulan-Bator, which we have recently reminisced about, and we discussed the development of bilateral relations concluding that all was going rather well.

I want to thank you once again for having come to Russia's Open Innovations Forum. I think it was an interesting event. They gave us a little scare there, of course, but we won't give up that easily. Artificial intelligence is all right, but we are still capable of making an extra effort to make sure that the relationship between our countries is on the rise in the most favourable of conditions.
