

Russia: UK condemns ruling of Navalny foundation as extremist organisation

News story

The UK has condemned the judgment by a Russian court today that Alexey Navalny's anti-corruption foundation is an extremist organisation.

Foreign Secretary Dominic Raab said:

“Today’s ruling that the anti-corruption foundation FBK is an extremist organisation is perverse. It is another Kafka-esque attack on those standing up against corruption and for open societies, and is a deliberate attempt to effectively outlaw genuine political opposition in Russia.”

Published 9 June 2021