

Science and technology projects wanted for potential UK mission with Axiom Space

Up to £15 million commercial funding could be made available for British science and technology to fly to space, should the proposed mission with Axiom Space proceed, the UK Space Agency announced today.