

UK sanctions Guatemalan Congressman under new global anti-corruption regime

The UK Government designated today Guatemalan Congressman Felipe Alejos Lorenzana due to his involvement in significant corruption.

UK sanctions 22 individuals involved in serious international corruption

The Foreign Secretary has announced the UK's first sanctions under the new Global Anti-Corruption regime.

Flagship summer schools programme opens today to help students recover lost learning

Summer schools will be targeted at children who suffered the most disruption during the last year

The IPO's free online tools helping SMEs take their ideas to market

This week we are marking World IP Day. This year's theme focuses on small and medium – sized enterprises (SMEs).

Stunning photographs show the people behind the national vaccination effort

Today the government has published a series of photographs taken by photojournalists working with the NHS, showcasing the people behind the UK-wide vaccination programme – ahead of a campaign urging under-50s to get the jab.