

Scottish killer whale contained one of the highest concentrations of PCB pollutants ever recorded in marine mammals

The Scottish Marine Animal Stranding Scheme, managed by SRUC, has found that a killer whale found dead on Tiree had one of the highest levels of polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB) pollution ever recorded.