

Search is on for young space entrepreneurs ahead of first UK rocket launches

Young people have the chance to a share of £50,000 and expert advice for their ideas on how satellites could improve life on Earth, in a competition run by the UK Space Agency.