

Second wind for retired plane

The Government Flying Service has bequeathed one of its former planes to the community, to give the public an accessible keepsake of Hong Kong's aviation history.

The Jetstream 41 fixed-wing plane was used for search and rescue missions, medical evacuations, law enforcement and aerial surveying for 17 years.

It has been given a permanent resting place in Kai Tak Runway Park to play a new role – educating the public.

News.gov.hk interviewed GFS officers to learn about the aircraft.

The story appears on news.gov.hk today (July 15) in text and video format.
