

Security bosses fined after deploying unlicensed door supervisor

The directors of a security company have been fined after a door supervisor was found working at a Bristol nightclub with a suspended licence.