

Sentences increased for men involved in attempted child sex offences

Four men involved in attempted child sex offences have had their sentences increased under the ULS scheme in a landmark court case