

Setting new standards in nuclear engineering

A unique cross-sector collaboration has created an improved approach to the design and build of a key component in the nuclear industry.