

SIA encourages public to thank security on International Security Officers' Day

The UK's private security industry regulator is encouraging everyone to show their appreciation to security operatives on International Security Officers' Day.