

Six companies through to next stage of nuclear technology competition

Designs chosen in government competition considered most able to deliver cutting-edge technology by mid-2030s