

Six-year ban for boss of collapsed training company who failed to explain £3.5 million spending

London-based director of apprenticeships training provider failed to explain spending that included more than £2.5 million of public funding