

Skills training to be transformed with innovative projects

People across the country set to benefit from more skills training, with £200 million to help them launch careers in key industries.