

Smartphone technology in bid to revolutionise early detection of kidney disease

Thousands of patients to benefit from smartphone app that allows them to transmit results to their GP in minutes without leaving home.