

Sound archive acquires new technology for digitising wax cylinders

We're delighted to announce that the sound archive now has the privilege of housing one of only two Endpoint cylinder replay machines in Europe, expanding our capabilities for preserving historical audio recordings in the UK. This exciting development was made possible by the Unlocking our Sound Heritage project, generously supported..