

South East of England has its say on the future of the NHS

More than 100 people from across the South East of England have come together to speak about the 10 Year Health Plan and the NHS in the region