

Sowing the seeds for research project

Researchers at Scotland's Rural College have created an apple pollination experiment to help parents who are home schooling their children.