Rebecca Long-Bailey

MP, Labour's Shadow Business Secretary,

commenting on reports that Toyota is to invest in a UK plant at Burnaston, said:

"The decision by Toyota to invest £240 million to upgrade its Burnaston plant is very welcome news. It is testament to the world-class workforce there whose excellence, hard work, and efficiency makes the UK car industry so strong.

"However, we should not be complacent. As the chief executive of Toyota Motor Europe warned; continued, predictable and uncomplicated tariff and impediment-free access will be important for future success. This is why the Government needs to secure tariff and impediment free access to the Single Market and Customs Union and re-enforce this with a coherent industrial strategy, which invests in the supply chain, R&D, infrastructure and skills. Only by doing this will the Government protect jobs in the UK car industry and ensure the continued success of this sector."

Nick

Thomas-Symonds MP, Labour's Shadow Solicitor-General, commenting on the Government's failure to guarantee the SF0's (Serious Fraud Office) future as an independent entity, said:

"This Tory Government needs to recognise the value of the Serious Fraud Office and its importance to our international reputation for tackling cases of bribery and corruption.

"It would be a grave mistake to dispose of the SF0 and its unique structure. Ministers must provide clarity on its future immediately."

- Ruth: Sturgeon's referendum should not take place

16 Mar 2017

Scotland does not want to go back to the “division and uncertainty” of another referendum, Nicola Sturgeon was told today.

At First Minister's Questions, Scottish Conservative leader Ruth Davidson said the party would reject the proposals set out by the SNP on Monday.

Scottish Conservative leader Ruth Davidson said:

“The Scottish Conservatives reject the proposals set out by the First Minister on Monday.

“A referendum cannot happen when the people of Scotland have not been given the opportunity to see how our new relationship with the European Union is working.

“And it should not take place when there is no clear political or public consent for it to happen.

“Our country does not want to go back to the divisions and uncertainty of the last few years.

“Another referendum campaign will not solve the challenges this country will face.

“We don't want it. We don't need it.”

Tory

manifesto commitment on mixed sex wards in tatters as incidents rise 50% in a year

Theresa

May has been accused of abandoning yet another Tory Manifesto commitment as new figures reveal the number of NHS patients in mixed sex wards running 50% higher than this time last year.

New

figures published by NHS England today show that hospitals breached mixed sex accommodation rules 1750 times during January and February this year – compared to 1164 in the same period last year

Mixed

sex accommodation breaches have gone through the roof since Theresa May took over last July – with 5618 in the 8 months since she became Prime Minister, compared with just 4259 in the whole of 2015.

Ending

mixed sex wards was a key pledge of David Cameron's Government in 2010 and the 2015 Conservative Manifesto included a promise to "continue to eliminate mixed sex wards".

Labour

said today's figures showed that Theresa May's decision to restrain NHS spending was pushing hospitals to the brink.

Jonathan

Ashworth MP, Labour's Shadow Health Secretary, said:

"Tory

cuts to social care have seen hospital attendances rocket and now it seems Theresa May has given up on her manifesto promise to eliminate mixed sex wards.

Patients expect dignity and respect when they're being treated in hospital but this Government is letting them down. The Government has overseen a catastrophic collapse of patient standards and this failure on mixed sex wards is yet another sign that England's hospitals are at breaking point.

"The

Prime Minister needs to get a grip and explain what she is going to do to fix the crisis which she has created. Every day that goes by brings more news of patient care getting worse under this Government. Quite simply the Government's policy of underfunding and mismanaging the NHS has left hospitals on the brink."

We need protection from terrorism, but pointless laws serve no purpose – Diane Abbott

Diane Abbott MP, Labour's Shadow Home Secretary, responding to comments from the new independent reviewer of terrorism legislation, said:

"This review is welcome. Max Hill makes some good points on removing laws that are never used. We need protection from terrorism, but pointless laws serve no purpose.

"He also highlights the fact certain communities, in particular Muslims, feel unfairly targeted. This will add to wider concerns around the Government's Prevent strategy, which should also be reviewed."
