Endless winter for the NHS as Tory cuts cause chaos for patients – Jonathan Ashworth

The latest NHS situation reports for A&E performance have been published today and show Theresa May's winter crisis stretching into spring.

Emergency

admissions in the week ending 12 March were the highest they have been so far this winter and A&E attendances in the week ending 12 March were the highest since December.

In the week ending 12 March, there were 19 temporary diverts from one A&E to another to provide temporary respite. Overall, there have been around 84 per cent more diverts this winter than last winter.

In the week ending 12 March, 34 different trusts reported serious operational pressures at some point. On average, 20 trusts each day reported serious operational pressures.

Last week, 13 trusts had average bed occupancy over 99 per cent – up from 12 in the previous week.

Jonathan Ashworth MP, Labour's Shadow Health Secretary, said:

“Standards for NHS patients have collapsed this winter because Theresa May just hasn't given the health service the resources and the priority it needs.

“It beggars belief that such pressure is still being seen on A&E after months of crisis – it is a sign of a wider system creaking under the strain of Tory neglect.

“The Prime Minister needs to get a grip and make clear what action she's going to take so that patients and their families never have to suffer a winter like this ever again.”

It is shocking that over 70 per cent of young people have never experienced political education in school, college or university – Cat Smith

Cat

Smith MP, Labour's Shadow Minister for Voter Engagement and Youth Affairs, commenting on

45forthe45th Legacy report published today, said:

“It

is shocking that over 70 per cent of young people have never experienced political education in school, college or university.

“As

the Tories take the country down a path of Brexit chaos, it is essential that young people are educated about the civic and public institutions which frame our laws. Not only will this increase voter engagement and turnout, but it will make government more accountable for its actions.”
