

Grass act

Agriculture students at Scotland's Rural College (SRUC) were challenged to be the 'best in grass' in a competition sponsored by fertiliser company Yara.

Educational SEFARI

Scottish research institutes are sharing educational activities and resources for teachers, parents and learners to use during the coronavirus pandemic.

Raising the baa on sheep health and nutrition

A European sheep network is calling on farmers and others in the industry to share their challenges and needs in a bid to improve flock health, nutrition and management practices.

New tools for gardening classes

Horticulture and garden design lecturers at Scotland's Rural College (SRUC) have been exploring innovative ways of teaching practical units during the coronavirus pandemic.

Back to earth

After visiting her sister on Jura last year, Greenkeeping student Laura Sayer-Hall fell in love with the Inner Hebridean island and quit her job to move there full-time.