Tech Secretary unveils £8.5 million research funding set to break new grounds in AI safety testing

Up to £8.5 million of government research grants will be offered to improve society's resilience to the risks arising from the development of new AI technologies.