

The future space environment

As our planet becomes increasingly reliant on space, the UK is working to be at the forefront of space protection and sustainability.