

The UK is committed to ensuring that technological progress serves as a force for peace: UK statement at the UN Security Council

Statement by UK Permanent Representative to the UN Ambassador Barbara Woodward at the UN Security Council meeting on the impact of scientific developments on international peace and security.