

The vital role of professional planners in building the homes we need

The Housing Minister Matthew Pennycook writes to the President of the RTPI to convey a clear message on behalf of government to professional planners.