

Theresa May should take urgent action to stand up for bill payers – Clive Lewis

Clive

Lewis MP, Labour's Shadow Secretary of State for Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy, commenting on the energy price increases from Npower, said:

“This government is doing nothing to enforce their own regulator's strong advice that there should be no price hike.

“They have done nothing to increase the number of families getting help to insulate their home. And they are not doing enough to ensure better customer treatment.
Theresa May should take urgent action to stand up for bill payers”