

Three high street lenders to offer mortgages on properties affected by building safety issues

Over three quarters of mortgage lending in the country is now covered by the commitment, helping more people get on with their lives