

Top secret lab develops atomic clock using quantum technology

A revolutionary UK-built atomic clock will make military operations more secure through experimental quantum technology.