

Tougher laws to protect children from sexual abuse

Children will be better protected from sexual predators under plans being brought forward by the Home Secretary.