

Transport Secretary pledges to fix pothole plague as she sees cutting-edge repair technology in action on Blackpool visit

Government plans to fix up to one million more potholes a year and help halt the decline of the country's road network.