

Two-minute silence as the nation remembers

A national two-minute silence will take place today to remember all those who have died in conflict