

UK government support for developing countries to tackle climate change

New £160 million funding to help reduce emissions and lower costs in developing countries.