

UK invests in high-tech nuclear fuel to push Putin out of global energy market

£300 million UK investment to support domestic production of fuel required to power next-generation nuclear reactors.