

UK Minister vows to work with devolved nations to deliver growth in first visit to Northern Ireland

The newly appointed Minister for Intergovernmental Relations, Pat McFadden, made his first visit to Northern Ireland today following the UK Government's commitment to resetting and strengthening the relationship between...