

UK ministers appoint new members to Agriculture and Horticulture Development Board

UK government and devolved administration agriculture ministers have appointed five new main board members with experience across the organisation's remit.