

UK powers up partnership with US and Australia to strengthen security

A landmark security partnership entered a new phase today as the Defence Ministers of the UK, Australia and United States met in California.