

UK science uncovers mysteries of dark universe with Euclid data

Cutting-edge UK research is benefiting the European Space Agency's Euclid mission, with new data released today (19 March) set to uncover the secrets of dark energy and matter.