

Cable: British Government should stand up to protectionist bullying from Trump

“Rather than simply expressing ‘bitter disappointment’, our government should be out there fighting for vital British manufacturing jobs in Belfast.

Go to Source

Author:

Lib Dems welcome Sadiq’s call for referendum on Brexit deal

“I welcome signs from top Labour people that they are willing to join the Liberal Democrats in giving the people a referendum on the facts, at the end of the Brexit process.

Go to Source

Author:

Labour and Conservatives are both economically illiterate

“The Labour Party are right to prepare for economic collapse should they get into government. Their endorsement of Brexit, including taking the UK out of the Single Market is economically illiterate.

Go to Source

Author:

Labour putting political point scoring first

“It is disappointing, but not at all surprising, that the Labour Party seems intent on putting petty political point scoring ahead of the opportunity to genuinely help millions of vulnerable older people. We already know more than a million people are not getting social care they need, and this is only set to get worse as politicians in Westminster fail to act. Shouting at each other doesn't get older people the care they need.

Go to Source

Author:

Responding to John McDonnell's speech to Labour conference, leader of the Liberal Democrats Vince Cable said:

These are people who voted Labour in the hope that they would stand up to the Conservatives on Brexit and fight to stay in the Single Market.

Go to Source

Author: