Government has blown pretence of climate leadership with 'max out' fossil fuels pledge say Greens

Green Party

30 January 2024

A report by the Climate Change Committee (CCC) has accused the UK government of giving 'mixed messages' at the COP28 climate summit held in Dubai in December [1].

The CCC said: "The international perception of the UK's climate ambition suffered from mixed messages following announcements on new fossil fuel developments and the prime minister's speech to soften some net zero policies. The committee urges a continued visible presence at future Cops and even greater domestic climate ambition to reinforce the UK's international standing."

Responding, co-leader of the Green Party, Carla Denyer, said:

"Through its drive to 'max out' on North Sea fossil fuels, the UK government has blown any pretence of global leadership on tackling the climate crisis. Ministers have been forced into admitting that their energy security defence of the Offshore Petroleum Licensing Bill was nonsense because oil and gas corporations sell to the highest bidder on the open market.

"So at odds with the government's target of reducing emissions is this dangerous Bill that it has led to the resignation of Chris Skidmore who chaired the government's Net Zero Review.

"We need to call time on all new licences for fossil fuel exploration, accelerate the move towards renewable energy and implement a large scale home insulation programme. That is how the UK can show climate leadership."
