

Ian Blackford: time is running out to prevent an extreme Brexit that risks jobs

As the UK government moves into the critical second phase of the Brexit negotiations, and with just ten months to go before a deal is due to be in place between the UK and EU, time is running out to prevent the unprecedented economic catastrophe of an extreme Tory Brexit.

Go to Source

Author:

Fact check: the Tory record on the environment

It's more than a decade since David Cameron hugged a husky and urged people to 'Vote Blue, Go Green' – yet the Tory record on the environment has never matched this rhetoric.

Go to Source

Author:

Nicola Sturgeon: A spirit of Scottish assertiveness will fight an extreme Brexit

The year ahead has the potential to be one of the most significant in Scotland's recent history. I believe that it will be a year in which a new Scotland continues to emerge – an emboldened, more confident and more assertive nation.

Go to Source

Author:

Theresa May needs to show backbone over sexist Toby Young appointment

Nepotism is known to be common in politics.

But we could see it particularly clearly last week when right-wing commentator Toby Young was given a position with the UK Government as a board member of a new universities regulator.

Go to Source

Author:

My New Year's resolution is to hold the Tories to account when they let Scotland down

Happy New Year!

As you read this – maybe like me – you are thinking about some New Year's resolutions. In politics, politicians make resolutions all the time.

Go to Source

Author: