

SNP manifesto for culture and creativity

Our thriving creative sector has a reputation for excellence: from the many artists based here, to our Festivals, our National Performing Companies and National Collections, our rich built heritage and our world-leading digital technologies. We value the many, vibrant, contributions they make to Scotland and to our international reputation.

Here's how SNP MPs will be strong voices for Scotland's creative sector at Westminster.

SNP manifesto: what it means for young people

We have now launched our manifesto for the General Election on 8 June. It sets out how we will ensure that there is strong opposition to a re-elected and increasingly hard line Tory government at Westminster.

SNP manifesto: what it means for businesses

We have now launched our manifesto for the General Election on 8 June. It's packed full of ideas on how we can protect jobs, boost economic growth and improve productivity.

SNP Manifesto for Women 2017

Advancing women's equality is central to the SNP manifesto, and a strong team of SNP MPs at would champion gender equality at Westminster – defending and extending women's rights, protecting women's incomes, and pressing for comprehensive action on gender-based violence in the UK and around the world.

SNP manifesto: what it means for families

We have now launched our manifesto for the General Election on 8 June. It sets out how we will ensure that there is strong opposition to a re-elected and increasingly hard line Tory government at Westminster.