

UN chief to stress gender parity, mediation in first press briefing of new General Assembly session

13 September 2017 – United Nations Secretary-General António Guterres is today focusing the international community on developments in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) and Myanmar, as well as the importance of gender parity, and the need for mediation in diplomacy.

In his first press conference since the opening of the 72nd General Assembly Session, the Secretary-General is also discussing his priorities for next week's high-level debate.

More to come...

Watch Live