

We must adapt for an ageing population says Chief Medical Officer

Professor Chris Whitty's annual report says we can improve older citizens' quality of life, and this should be a major aim of policy and medical practice.